Schools set June 9 for 5.15 renewal

By MIKE ARNHOLT

PLYMOUTH—The financial picture for the Plymouth schools may be looking a bit brighter if Governor William Milliken's new state school aid proposal is adopted by the legislature.

That was the word school board members received Saturday morning as they met to go over budget projections for the 1975-76 school year.

Just two weeks ago, administrators felt the district could be facing close to a $1 million deficit if current programs were maintained without a millage increase. Talk at that time touched on the possibility of a millage increase in the district.

To offset that deficit, more than 2.5 mills in revenue would have been needed to balance the anticipated $17 million budget.

WITH THE GOVERNOR'S school aid proposal of last week, the district's projected revenues might fall within only $74,000 of anticipated expenses, based on maintaining current programs.

Assistant Supt. for Business Ray Hoedel explained to the five board members present at the special Saturday meeting that his projections were based on a student enrollment increase of five per cent up to 13,300, and property evaluation (SEV) increase of nine per cent, up to $430 million.

Hoedel pointed out that a reduction in the number of expected students would hurt the district slightly, while an increase in the SEV could prove a slight benefit.

The board agreed to place a renewal of 5.15 operating mills on the June 9 ballot, at the same time that four school board members will be up for election. Board trustee George Lawton made the motion, noting it would give the board and the administration ample time to prepare the campaign, and would eliminate the cost of a special election.

And while the financial picture presented to the board seemed brighter, the board did not rule out the possibility of asking the voters for additional millage.

HOEDEL NOTED that a special safety millage of .4 mills would be expiring and suggested that the school district seek a vote on that amount earmarked for building and site improvements.

School Supt. John M. Hoben, however, stressed that the financial picture for the district was still very "speculative" at this point, Hoben said he felt the district would be in better shape to estimate both upcoming revenues and expenditures in April.

Talk by board members also centered on adding new programs, particularly at the elementary level. Following lengthy discussion, Lawton pointed to seven areas which the administration will research, with the emphasis placed on possible financing through reducing or eliminating other programs.

The items included:

- Training for staff members at four new school sites expected to open in the 1976-77 school year.

- Adding an elementary curriculum director.

- Adding an elementary counseling program.

- Adding vocational education at the elementary level.

- Explore the use of non-certified personnel to free up certified teachers.

- Consider reduction in class size (in the elementary grades).

- Review completed curriculum council studies and determine the possibility of adding items to the curriculum.

Board secretary Marcia Borowski noted that this list was not final and that citizens may have other suggestions at the Feb. 22 public hearing on the budget. The board will set a time for the hearing tonight (Monday) at its regular meeting.

OTHER QUESTIONS that Lawton raised for the board to answer at a later date included a more complete breakdown of the district's financial picture in relation to the governor's proposed state aid package.

Lawton also suggested that the board consider earmarking future millage increases, going to the voters with a specific program or concept which would be funded with the added millage.

He also questioned whether the board should consider switching from the present five-year renewals to four or six-year with the upcoming 5.15 mill renewal.

He explained that this would couple two millage renewals together in the future, bringing the operational millage renewals into bigger blocks.

MURDER SUSPECTS in the slaying of Canton resident Terry L. Buchman arrived at Metro Airport Friday after waiving extradition proceedings in Wyoming where they were captured. Barry

Murder suspects stand mute

By RICHARD GOLD

WESTLAND—Suspects in the Jan. 28 shotgun slaying of Canton resident Terry L. Buchman stood mute before Judge Francis E. Burger as they were arraigned on charges of first-degree murder Saturday afternoon.

The suspects, Barry L. Provow, 27, his wife Leslie, 18, and Robert W. Umney, 22, had pleas of not guilty entered on their behalf by Judge Burger.

The arraignment proceedings took place in a makeshift courtroom at the Wayne County Prosecutors' out county office on Henry Ruff Road and followed the suspects arrival from Wyoming at Detroit Metro Airport by some 20 hours.

THE THREE suspects were apprehended by members of the Albany County Road Patrol Friday a week ago in Cheyenne, Wyoming. They waived an extradition fight and returned to the metropolitan area on Friday afternoon.

Judge Burger denied bond to all three suspects and counsel for Barry Provow, Michael M. Pantel said he will ask for bail when they go before Judge Dunbar Davis in the 35th District Court in Plymouth on Monday Feb. 21 for the pretrial examination.

At that time, the county prosecutors will be asked to show reasonable cause to believe that the three suspects were responsible for Buchman's murder. If they are successful in that attempt, a trial will be scheduled by Judge Davis.

Pantel had originally accepted an offer to defend Provow and his wife Leslie. But at her request, he removed himself from her defense. Instead, Robert Delaney, a Plymouth attorney and Umney's defense counsel will defend her at the pretrial proceedings.

At this time it is not clear whether she will opt for a court appointed lawyer or remain with Delaney after the pretrial exam.

Leslie Provow was taken to the Wayne County jail on 525 Clinton Street immediately after the arraignment, while Umney and Provow will stay in the Road Patrol's facility. Detective Ronald Brown said "due to the

A 'restless' young lady

By DARLENE STINSON

PLYMOUTH—Once a well-liked classmate who received good grades in school, 18-year-old Leslie Cassidy Provow sits behind bars today with a first-degree murder charge for complicity.

Leslie, her husband, Barry Provow, 27, and Robert Umney, 24, are charged with the Jan. 28 murder of Terry Buchman, 22, of Canton.

Mrs. Barbara Cassidy, a divorcee who has four other daughters and a son, describes her third eldest daughter as "restless" and "confused."

"I always felt she'd be a heck of a young lady, if she could get it together," said Mrs. Cassidy. "She never seemed able to find what she was looking for."

Until ninth grade, Leslie was a good student who performed well in school, Mrs. Cassidy said. A downward plunge in grades, a poor attendance record and a lack of interest marked 10th grade at Plymouth Salem High School.

ONE HIGH SCHOOL administrator described Leslie's attendance as "sporadic."

"She was not going to class, and her attendance was very poor," he said. "There was no question about her ability. She had it. Her attitude wasn't hostile. She just wasn't interested."

Besides a poor attendance record, which brought her to juvenile court authorities, Leslie's mid-teen years were marked by numerous runaway excursions, taking her to Florida, North Carolina, Flint, Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor.

Leslie dropped out of school altogether in 1973, with two more years to go before graduation ceremonies.

"I think she was pretty well accepted by the group of kids she associated with," mused one school administrator, who knew her well. "She was the kind of gal who said what she thought. Very frank. She was the kind of kid who had some hang-ups and had to get her head together."

"I felt I got along with her very well," he said. "I thought she had a lot of good qualities. Yet she was rather confused and had a difficult time finding herself here at the Park."

"I THINK DEEP down inside she was a sensitive girl," he said. "I really took a liking to her."

Part of Leslie's problems in school, Mrs. Cassidy believes, stemmed from the Centennial Educational Park's modular scheduling system, under which students are offered a portion of "unscheduled" time.

"I don't want to knock the school system," Mrs. Cassidy said. "I always thought it (modular scheduling) was great, but just for certain people. Not everyone can distribute their time wisely."

"Leslie seemed to do better when she was sat on. She needed more discipline, and yet this was always what she was fighting against."

Drugs played a predominant role in Leslie's life, until she met her husband, Provow, Mrs. Cassidy said.

"How far she went, I'm not sure," her mother said. "She had quite a few friends, but she was always going to them. I always felt I wasn't cared for because of my position on drugs."

"Her husband was the one who got her off drugs," Mrs. Cassidy continued. "That was one thing we liked about him."

Leslie left her mother's home in October, on the eve of her courtroom wedding day.

MRS. CASSADY was against the marriage.

"Family-wise, we always talked against Barry," she recalled. "We didn't think he had the background for her. Leslie always accused us of not accepting him."

"I feel she became quite afraid of him," Mrs. Cassidy said. "He had this terrible temper. He'd drop her a look, snap his fingers and say, 'We're going.' It seemed to be a dictatorship type of marriage."

"I think as her mother I can make all kinds of excuses for her," Mrs. Cassidy said. "But there are many times you think you know your child, and you don't. They all have their own personal quirks."

"It comes down to the basics," she added. "We all still love her. My children have been told I'll always be here, when they need me. That doesn't necessarily mean I endorse what they do."

New census set

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—The township's long awaited census may soon become a reality, according to Township Supervisor Robert Greenstein.

A resolution to get the census under way will be presented to the township board tomorrow night. If it passes, the supervisor expects that the door-to-door work will start immediately after the spring thaw.

"We hope to have the raw data in by June, and we think we can run it through Wade and Trim's (planning consultants) computer so that we can make some meaningful comments about it soon thereafter," he commented.

Greenstein has already hired a census enumerator, as Bruce Phillips, the assistant ordinance officer, will be given the task of organizing and overseeing the census operation.

THE SUPERVISOR added, "We think the whole thing will cost around $15,000 and we'll save $3,000 to $4,000 because Bruce will be paid out of the CETA money."

According to Greenstein, the 1970 census indicated that 11,000 people lived in the township. Since then however, Canton has experienced tremendous growth and the supervisor thinks that the new census will show "a virtual tripling" of the 1970 figure. "We don't know really how many people are now living in Canton, but our best estimates are between 28,000 and 31,000."

Greenstein said many benefits could be derived from the census.

CETA funds adds four to payroll

CANTON—Two ordinance officers, a Department of Public Works laborer, and an office receptionist at township hall were hired this week as Canton officials took steps to spend federal money available to them under the CETA program.

The total amount of money available to the township under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act is $50,000 and township officials will have used $48,000 of it when they add three fire dispatchers to the payroll sometime this month.

The seven hired under the CETA funds will fill new job positions, but they will be "full time temporary employees," according to Treasurer Carl Parsell because the grant money will expire at the end of June.

There is a good chance that the new employees will stay on, say township officials, because it is quite possible that another grant will be received by that time.

Topping the list of the new employees is Joseph Ruskin, former building inspector for Westland. According to Supervisor Robert Greenstein, "he is highly qualified and will fill a number of needs in the township."

Ruskin will be the chief ordinance officer and he will "be concerned primarily with building code violations," said Greenstein. The supervisor added, "He would be the man responsible for all the technical work on the ordinance enforcement and we can use him to substitute for the building inspectors if need be."

Hired to help Ruskin as assistant enforcement officer was Bruce Phillips, husband of Greenstein's secretary. Explained the supervisor, "Bruce will handle the non-technical work such as the sign ordinance and the eyesore type things like junk cars in the township."

According to Greenstein, he was hired because "as a campaign aide he showed 'excellent administrative ability.'"

The hirings were made by Greenstein, Parsell, and Clerk John Flodin. Greenstein explained, "It is not a civil service matter because the hirings are only temporary. The commission agreed with us on that. As long as CETA pays for them they'll be considered temporary."

Greenstein said that Phillips also will take care of the census for the township.

"We would have had to pay someone $3-4,000 for that," commented the supervisor, "but with Bruce doing that we'll save the money."

Professionals offer counseling

PLYMOUTH—"We're a multi-disciplinary team, and we all have different approaches. The client is getting service all the way through."

That's what psychiatric social worker Sandra Prochazka said about Associated Counseling Services, a new psychiatric counseling clinic at 352 N. Main.

The clinic provides a wide variety of services, including individual, family and group psychotherapy; psychological testing and evaluation; alcoholism therapy; seminars and workshops for family growth and awareness; and consultation to schools, churches and industries.

On the staff are a certified psychiatrist, psychologist, guidance counselor and two social workers, who enable the clinic to fit the proper personnel with the right client.

Although staff members currently hold other jobs, social worker Joseph Damiani said the clinic will go full-time "when the place is ready for us."

A 24-HOUR answering service currently refers calls to staff members, who later arrange for client's appointments.

Business so far has been better than expected, according to staff members, who have counseled children, adolescents and adults for family and marriage problems. Many referrals have come from the schools.

Psychiatrist Gonzalo Mesa said Plymouth was chosen as a site for the clinic, since it is an expanding area with no other professional counseling clinics.

"Many people moved from the city to this area," said Damiani, "and the growth is going to be somewhat difficult for some to handle."

Ms. Prochazka, whose family lives in the Plymouth area, added, "For the oldtimers, it's hard to adjust to a small town becoming a big city."

On the staff are Dr. Mesa, staff psychiatrist at Ypsilanti State Hospital; Dr. Joan M. Marshall, associate professor of psychology at Eastern Michigan University; John G. Vandenburg, counseling center group coordinator at Eastern Michigan University; Ms. Prochazka, a psychiatric social worker and therapist at Monroe Community Mental Health Center; and Damiani, a psychiatric social worker and director of the Concord Alcohol Intervention Program.

Flood program added

CANTON—A handful of Canton residents may have to purchase federally-subsidized flood insurance to obtain federally-backed home improvement or real estate loans after July 1.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees last week unanimously passed a resolution to make application into the flood insurance program.

The board vote gave the official green light to the application, which township administrators had already been preparing.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has identified a small slice of Canton Township, surrounding a portion of the Lower Rouge River lying north of Michigan and between Morton-Taylor and the eastern township line, as a flood-hazard area, threatened by storms that could occur once every 100 years.

Failure to apply for entry into the program by July 1 would have jeopardized Canton's eligibility for federally-guaranteed grants and loans, as well as residents' eligibility for FHA or bank loans on local real estate, mobile homes, or, in some cases, personal property.

Once Canton is admitted to the program, residents living within the specified flood-hazard area must obtain adequate flood insurance coverage before applications for federally-backed real estate loans will be approved.

Neighboring communities identified as flood-prone include the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

overpopulation at the county jail we have to keep them here." He did indicate however, that if the population there should decrease, or if a prisoner exchange is made, the two might be transferred to the county jail "because of its better security."

Pantel, a former member of the Oakland County prosecutor's staff said that his client (Provow) had decided to return to Wayne County and waive his right to an extradition fight because he said he was "innocent and wanted to defend himself."

PANTEL WAS retained by Provow's family he said, "because I have handled legal work for them previously."

According to Pantel, the complaint against the three suspects was signed by Lloyd Cash, allegedly a witness to the murder. Pantel maintains that it is rather unusual for a private citizen to sign the complaint rather than a member of the sheriff's detective bureau.

When questioned about this, Brown said that it was not unusual because Cash was available. He added, "Usually it is more expedient for the sheriff's department to do it but since Cash was available he signed the complaint." Cash is an alleged eyewitness to the slaying.

According to Brown, the flight back from Wyoming "went exceptionally well. We had terrific cooperation from both Wyoming officials and Denver police who held them in custody during our two hour layover there. Everything went very smoothly."

When the suspects arrived at Metro they were accompanied by Detectives Brown, Robert Pond, Larry Patterson and a woman officer. Pond was carrying what appeared to be a rifle in a brown paper wrapping.

Upon arrival at the airport late Friday afternoon, the handcuffed suspects and the detectives were greeted by a host of officers from the sheriff's department.

There to meet the four officers and the suspects were Detectives Frank VanWulfen, head of the sheriff's detective bureau, a uniformed officer, two squad cars and Inspector Richard Page, head of all uniformed men for the Sheriff's Patrol. They were there, according to VanWulfen, "to give the detectives instructions."

The suspects were marched from gate 53 through the main concourse, down the escalator and into two sheriff's cars waiting for them by the baggage pickup in the bottom level of the airport.

They were transported from there to the Sheriff's Road Patrol jail where they were held until the arraignment Saturday afternoon. Present at the arraignment hearings were Leslie Provow's mother; Umney's father; Provow's parents, a brother and sister; and members of Buchman's family.

Cash had been in earlier Saturday morning to talk to Det. Brown, but did not stay for the proceedings.

The Stroller

A lucky fellow

—By W. W. EDGAR—

It is amazing to know just how lucky a fellow can be in one lifetime.

The Stroller got to thinking about this while celebrating a half century of strolling along the river of printers ink in the metropolitan Detroit area.

First, it didn't seem possible that 50 years had gone by since he arrived here — a young lad from the Pennsylvania Dutch country eager to make his way in the big city.

But one look at the calendar was proof that it was just that long ago when the railroads were in full sway as a means of transportation and that he had come west on the gem of all trains — "The Black Diamond Express."

Looking back through the mist of years, he noted that he had seen the railroads give way to air travel with men flying across the land and oceans.

ONE BY ONE THESE almost unbelievable things came passing in review. There was the advent of radio when man first picked voices out of the air. We were then treated to color motion pictures in which the actors actually talked. Folks jammed the theaters in the late '20s to hear Al Jolson in the first "talkies."

This was just a forerunner of television which enabled you to pick pictures out of the air and see them in your living room.

A fellow now can watch the top football games and other sports events without leaving the easy chair in his own home.

The Stroller has been present at the advent of these things. He sat up most of the night watching Neil Armstrong bring honor and glory to the astronauts by setting foot on the moon.

As he sat there letting his memory drift back through a half century, he recalled the first radio speaker he ever had seen or heard.

In the early '20s when radio was making its debut, people used to sit up all hours of the night with ear phones trying to get such far away stations as KDKA in Pittsburgh and another station in Schenectady, N.Y.

ONE FAVORITE pastime was to compare notes with your fellow workers to see which one had listened to the most distant station.

In those days radio could be heard only by the use of ear phones and then only by one person at a time.

But one Sunday afternoon something happened. It was the day The Stroller left home and he was visiting a friend to say "good bye."

The friend had been listening to radio with ear phones. When he took them off and placed them in a glass punch bowl on the dining room table, something wonderful took place — the voices were audible to all in the room. It was the first radio speaker.

Then other wonderful things started happening fast after The Stroller made his home in downtown Detroit. It was in a theater where he heard and saw the first talking pictures. It was at the Free Press radio station, WCX, that he made his first appearance before a "mike."

It was at the Free Press, too, that he saw the first newspaper photographs transmitted by wire. In six minutes, a picture could be sent from coast to coast.

It was while returning to the office from an assignment at the University of Detroit that he heard of Charles Lindberg's successful solo flight across the ocean to pave the way for our present air lines.

And all the while he has enjoyed the best of health.

Just how lucky can a fellow be?

AAUW to hold fireside meetings

Township planning, the aging process and legislative concerns are the topics of three fireside meetings, all scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13, by the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women.

Each will be held in the home of a different AAUW member.

The fireside meetings, a part of the organization's program each year, are aimed at providing an opportunity for members to choose topics they would like to discuss in a small, informal setting.

James Anulewicz and Mike Manore, planning board members for Plymouth and Canton Townships, respectively, will be guests for the meeting scheduled in the home of Esther Hulsing, 12619 Beacon Hill Court.

The two planners will show slides of areas representing good and bad planning, and the discussion that follows will follow the theme "Township Planning: Problems or Progress?"

A meeting in the home of Janet Repp, 47911 Brewster Court, will focus on the topic "The Aging Process: Golden or Grey years?"

Guests for that gathering will be John Dufour, Livonia parks and recreation director, and Ron McDonald, currently working on a doctorate in gerontology from the University of Michigan.

Their presentation will include simulation games. The discussion will be led by Ruth Clemens.

Bill Joyner, Livonian representing Michigan Common Cause, will be on hand for the meeting on legislative concerns, to be held in the home of Lucia Danes, 121 High Street, Northville.

He will tell about his group and its impending petition drive for campaign reform.

In addition, a Ford Motor Co. film will be shown. It deals with emission standards and their cost and effect on the total economy.

The AAUW is open to all women who are college graduates, and prospective members interested in attending one of the fireside meetings may call Mrs. Fred Hanert, 40739 Firwood, Plymouth.

Whittier girls learn grooming

BY SHERRY KAHAN

When Sharon Chapple launched a unit on good grooming in her home economics class in Whittier Junior High School at Westland, she launched it in stride.

Instead of lecturing her eighth grade girls on fixing and maintaining attractive hair, she brought in five hairdressers from the Classy Lassy, a Livonia beauty salon.

Right on the premises they set up shop, cut and styled the hair of four girls.

"I liked watching how they did it," says Sue Gillies, a member of the class.

"The talk made me more interested in becoming a beautician," says Lori Stapleton. "I liked learning how to use a blow dryer to make hair less curly."

"We want the girls to know how to take care of their health and appearance, and we try to add a career approach to the unit," says Mrs. Chapple. "So the hairdressers not only talked about grooming but about hairdressing as a profession."

WHEN MRS. CHAPPLE wants her girls to learn about a career, she prefers no second hand comments. She finds persons working in that career and invites them to class.

So far this year, Mrs. Kathleen Good, physical education teacher at Whittier, has talked on fitness and health, and Avon representative Lois Wladyka presented a make-up and manicure demonstration.

Aiding in the classes were beauticians Larr Brooks, Lis Fekell, Marge Dowell, Karen Bearer and Dolly Ettenholfer. Donna Schmidt, a model, discussed "Making the Most of Yourself" and followed it with words on modeling as a career.

Mary Jane ERan also brought in comments on make-up and skin care. Another model, Mrs. Sharon Pettit, offered beauty tips. J.L. Hudson sent two models who put on a teen fashion show and make-up demonstration.

"I remember the talk on care of the nails," says Roberta Courtney. "You want to have nice looking hands if you are going to a party or a wedding."

Laurie Milan would like to be a model or an airline stewardess some day, so she was pleased to discover a new way to stand so she wouldn't get tired.

"The model showed us how to place our hands so we wouldn't look awkward," says Laurie. "We learned how to sit down gracefully instead of just plopping down, and they showed us how to walk more gracefully."

Lina Naser was listening carefully when Mrs. Good talked about how to lose weight. She thinks the clothes modeled at the fashion show were a little expensive.

"BUT THE MODELS had very good posture," says Sherri Switla, adding that she feels it is a good influence on the girls to have a professional model show them how to apply make-up.

Mrs. Chapple notes that the class will move on to other home economic matters such as cooking and child development. "I hope to set up our own nursery for an hour or two to give the girls a little first hand experience," she says.

In the cooking unit they will learn to plan and make a homemade meal.

"These are probably better home economic students than most," says Mrs. Chapple. "Lots of them have many responsibilities at home. They have to do housework and make whole meals because so many mothers are working."

New signal approved for school

LIVONIA—Johnson Elementary School pupils next fall will have improved safety conditions in the form of a new sidewalk, crossing, and traffic control signals.

The City Council Wednesday approved the recommendations of City Engineer Ed Siemert for the school on the south side of Ann Arbor Trail and Angeline Circle, just east of Newburgh.

The flashers warning drivers of a school crossing will be installed about 500 feet east and west of the crossing; and a new crossing will be installed for improved safety.

The changes were made following a meeting of Siemert, Principal Cecelia Murphy and parents.

$10 gourmet meal plus lots of advice

Charity Suczek stirs chocolate for Creme Au Chocolat En Petits Pots (Photographed by Kathy Willens)

By ETHEL SIMMONS

For less than $10 you can whip up a gourmet dinner for four. French cooking authority Charity De-Vig Suczek dished out this, and a lot more, in the way of culinary advice on a recent trip to Birmingham.

Food, apparently, is just like plants, who are like people, or so we've been told.

Madame Suczek wore a grey dress that matched her hair and a bright yellow apron that matched the cooking pot in which she made Creme Au Chocolat En Petits Pots.

In a softly accented voice and with expressive facial and hand gestures (when she wasn't busy stirring or demonstrating), Madame Suczek crooned, "You are dealing with living things and you must treat them that way."

THE AUDIENCE tittered when she said, "Never cook if you are unhappy. You upset all those things."

Madame Suczek went on, "Every pot is your friend. Take care of them. Many chefs have special pots to do this and that. They carry their own set of knives. 'The knife fits into my fist,' they say. 'If I use someone else's knife I'm sure going to cut my fingers.'"

In the Kitchen Shop of Jacobson's Store for the Home, she demonstrated her culinary artistry, aided by a male assistant. A large overhead mirror gave the women in the audience another view of the kitchen creativity. Madame Suczek cautioned, "I do not buy cooking wines. That is taboo. Now the wine that you serve with your meal you cook with."

YOU CAN save wine left from a meal, for cooking. Just tilt the bottle sideways so the cork stays wet, she said.

She added cognac to the chocolate turning smooth under the spoon.

"Every time you add a new flavor, you have a new dish."

Next came the addition of egg whites, already beaten frothy in a copper bowl.

She started preparing the meal backwards. After the dessert came the chicken, for Chicken in the Style of the Auge Valley.

Madame Suczek said the chicken was about eight weeks old and artificially raised. She explained chickens don't have the flavor like in our grandmother's day.

"YOU HAVE to do something to give it flavor," she said. "You can give it a lemon bath, or massage it with butter or oil. It's the same thing as a facial, what massage does for you. It makes it feel good."

The chicken, already decapitated and dressed, was obviously making the best of a bad situation.

Madame Suczek's delightful cooking lecture-demo continued. Bits and pieces cut from the chicken were set aside, for the stockpot.

"You don't throw anything away. Your soups and your sauces are only as good as your stocks."

She placed the chicken in a frying pan and, as it began to cook, took the pan and shook it.

"IF YOU'RE a good cook, nothing should stick to the pan. Don't poke at it with forks or knives or you'll ruin the glaze. Pick up the pan in both hands and shake. Everything should move," she said.

When it came time to light a match to the concoction, she pointed out,

Adding egg whites to the dessert mixture

"You always flame with a warm brandy rather than cold. The nicest flame comes from Southern Comfort because it's 150 proof and gives you a blue flame."

The chicken pieces were removed from the pan and the pan displayed. What's left on the bottom was the glaze, which most people just wash off under the faucet but should be used, for it's the secret in making the sauce.

The first course came almost last, the Potage Balvet. Madame Suczek began with fresh-frozen peas "because that's all I have."

SOUP FOR tasting was passed under in paper cups but shown first in an attractive tureen.

"It is part of your service," she said. "Good food deserves this."

The demonstration was winding up. Broccoli Agincourte was quickly and easily made, the vegetable retaining its bright green color after steaming.

The entree was placed in a serving dish, tilted so it could be viewed in the mirror in all its splendor. The audience burst into applause.

Earlier Madame Suczek had spoken of the beneficial effects of yogurt ("It's a very healthy food."). Her final comments were on:

- Meat that is packaged, so you can't touch. She wants to, "You package everything, then put all kinds of chemicals in foods that poison you. I rebel against this."

- Meal planning. "You have to be organized. Study your menu. Start out with the dish that takes the longest time, needs relaxing or cooling."

Cuisine and Duglass

Enjoyment of fine wine, quenelles, fellowship

When good friends together, together, the attraction for the evening is centered on the vine-ripened substance of France, Le Vin.

Chateau Pichon Lalande—Most Popular

Chateau Ausone—Second in running Carruades de Chateau Lafite—Rothschild—Ready

Chateau Figeac St. Emillion—Ready Chateau Montrose—Return to the caves for two-three years

Chateau Bataille—Return to the caves for two years

The guest responsible for bringing the French celebrities was Dr. Pat Daoust Balli, for the Chapitre du Michigan, of the world-renowned Chaine des Rotisseurs.

Dr. Daoust deplors all wines not conceived from the grape. However, he feels since alcohol is absorbed through the stomach the other wine-like fruit brew is better for you than the hard stuff, primarily because of its low alcoholic content.

HOWEVER, COMMENTED the doctor, the longer you taste wine the greater your appreciation becomes. One may find initially great enjoyment with the sweet wine and gradually prefer to lean toward the drier variety.

The year 1964 was a very good one for claret. It usually takes 6 to 12 years for cabernet sauvignon and merlot grapes to mature fully, and he strongly feels that these should be drunk within that period.

The art of tasting wine can be extremely difficult. And it can be as simple as enjoying the sublime liquid, after savoring its earthborn bouquet, while swirling the clear glass that was filled only one-half of the way.

This principle gives the wine life and creates an aromatic scent. The second sensation, while sipping, is rolling the grape broth around your taste buds from the tip, which is sweet, then the edges, which are salty. The sides are on the sour kick, while the bitter is in the back, looking for a good balance of bouquet.

AFTER SWALLOWING a few seconds later, the palatable pleasure of the aftertaste should linger on.

As the gala continued to flourish, four perspiring, thirsty, exhausted culinarians were frantic tasting and basting the little savories in a kitchen of very moderate size.

Whoever said that "too many cooks spoil the broth" would surely turn over in his grave had they have been there in the 12 x 6 kitchen.

Simple savories were served in a grand style, to honor the noble wines of an excellent vintage.

QUENELLE DE VOLAILLE CHES AMIS

3 quarts cold water
3-4 pounds stewing chicken parts
1 teaspoon salt
2 fresh carrots cut up
1 turnip cut up
3 stalks celery cut up
3 leeks cut up
1 clove garlic crushed
1 bouquet garni (thyme, bay leaf and parsley wrapped together)
2 large onions that have been injected with whole cloves.

Add the first two ingredients to a heavy stock pot, or kettle. If more water is needed, do so. Very slowly, bring it to a boiling point, removing any scum that may appear on the surface because it is unsightly.

Add the cut-up vegetables about one hour or so later. More water should be added.

If this recipe interests you for a consommé, then add ice cubes, four egg whites plus the shells, to the broth at this point. However, since the recipe is for a sauce, it will be necessary for a clear consommé.

Reduce under a low heat for about three-four hours. At midpoint, the chicken will be done, and we are going to use it in this recipe, so do with it what you may.

AFTER THE reducing process has paled into a finale, strain. You should have about six cups of a very fine broth, to which you will add the beurre manie (four tablespoons soft butter to four tablespoons flour that has been mixed together with your hand, hence the name; the consistency will be smooth).

With a soft wire whisk, whipping vigorously to achieve a velvety complexion, cook for about 15 minutes on a low heat, preferably in a heavy saucepot. This will prevent the sauce from scorching.

Add a liaison of one egg yolk and one cup thick cream (sour cream and buttermilk in equal proportions will work nicely) to a quart bowl and whip together for a second.

Then add half the hot veloute or chicken sauce to the liaison and whip to your heart's content. Set this sauce of excellence to one side with one-quarter pound of sweet, unsalted butter unwrapped alongside, until the quenelles are done.

QUENELLES OR LIGHT DUMPLINGS

4 breasts of chicken, skinned and freed from any unsightly fibers, cut up, ground twice finely, in a cold bowl.

Add the ground mixture with two egg whites and blend thoroughly. Add a pinch of ground sage and nutmeg, about one-half teaspoon salt and some seasoned salt with a little white pepper.

Whip until smooth. Then add about five tablespoons sour cream, one at a time. The mixture will be like a fluffy paste. In a three-inch pot add hot water, halfway, and let it simmer.

With a teaspoon initially dipped in water, scoop out a teaspoonful, forming an oval shape as best you can. Gently setting the quenelles in the simmering water, poach for about five minutes.

Remove the dumplings and in a casserole, whip the butter into the sauce and pour over the chicken, quenelles and serve.

If the quenelles are to be for a dinner party, they may be prepared a day or two in advance and covered with a clear wrapping. I would suggest not using foil. My experience has been that it oxidizes after being under cold storage for a period of time.

Vouvray is a medium dry white wine that goes very well with this dish.

School millages face uphill battle this year

R. T. Thompson writes

Now that teachers in many communities served by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have had their days in the sun—with strikes, court suits, firings, more court suits and the like for several months—the day of reckoning with the folks who pay the bills is coming up fast.

We are referring to those school systems which had troubles which have been resolved but now face the task of going to the voters to ask for millage, in many instances additional millage for operating costs in the 1975-6 school year. (South Redford is seeking an April 12 vote; Plymouth, Livonia and Redford Union will probably have millage proposals on their June 9 ballots).

Can you see the parents of a senior who has been told he or she will not be graduating next June because of the teachers strike marching right up the the voting booth and casting a big "YES" to give those same teachers a pay raise next year?

WE CAN'T. We believe the teachers won a few points but at the same time dropped a good many notches in their appraisal by parents and students alike.

We just can't believe the parents will ever forget how a group of striking teachers kept their son or daughter from graduating as scheduled. Neither do we believe the students affected will forget. They will have a bitterness towards the teachers involved long after the time they have youngsters going to school and are voting on millage.

That is, provided the State Legislature continues to duck the school financing problem and makes it mandatory for property taxes to pay most of the costs.

How can those teachers who voted to accept contracts in the fall after a bitter struggle abrogate the terms of that same pact by agreeing to a secondary strike in support of the Crestwood Education Association, expect much support from home folks when they ask for additional millage this spring?

We know, from talking with groups of interested parents when the secondary walkouts were threatened, that there was high feeling against the teachers group in that particular community.

IN THE FIRST place, the parents were disturbed that the particular union was not living up to the terms of a contract only a few months old. In the second place, they didn't want their youngsters out of school if they could avoid it.

These parents knew full well that students had to attend classes 180 days per year to get the full advantage of state aid, and they also suspected the accreditation was endangered for the system if the total days fell below the required total.

They have full realization that teachers should have the right to make their demands known, just like any other union. And these same parents believe that if a contract is signed in good faith, then it should be accepted as such and kept in good faith.

They expressed a belief that the teachers were not in good faith when they agreed to support the Crestwood strikers even at the expense of their own contract.

Thus, when it comes to millage time, the feeling is: Why should we do anything to help the teachers when they won't even hold to a contract they have signed and accepted?

IT'S STRANGE how this thing can spread throughout a community and mushroom to the point where there is hatred on both sides. That's bad, but that's how things are in some communities.

Whether the school administrations will be able to bring around the voters by poll time remains to be seen. It's hard enough to get millage these days without having an aroused group solidly against any such proposals even before the word millage is mentioned.

We know, for instance, of a retired senior citizen in one of the communities who has always supported school millage even though he is on a stationary income... social security.

But right now he's mad, real mad at the teachers, for their actions generally during the past several months.

"I always thought it was the job of the teachers to teach youngsters how to become men and women, assets to the community," he says. "Now I'm not so sure. What with picket lines, men teachers walking around with long beards and even longer hair, women teachers in short dresses, much shorter than the wee ones used to wear years ago, how can these people have an influence on anybody?

"Then we see teachers in picket lines, fighting with police. This doesn't reflect the professionalism I'm accustomed to."

THIS MAN DOESN'T feel he wants to pay taxes of more than $1,000 annually of which $800 goes to the schools.

"In the past I wouldn't have minded a bit," he said, "but now it's a different story. I just don't feel I should pay $1,000 of my $4,800 income for property taxes to pay teachers who seem to prefer to walk picket lines more than they like to teach."

He's reflecting the feeling of a LOT OF PEOPLE and who's to blame? Well you can't place it all on the teachers and neither on the school boards; it just has to be our system of taxation, and only the Legislature can change that.

The community feelings? We're quite sure this is a job for the administration, the school board and the teachers... they'll all have to work together on this one and hope to sell folks on a changed atmosphere....if they can

Sometimes new isn't better

By CORINNE ABATT

It's always a shock to find someone who doesn't like a law that offers something for nothing.

Why? Two longtime substitute teachers in Redford Union School District, Mary Cassidy and Frances Courtade, have some answers.

The new Michigan law, effective last month entitles "subs" to unemployment compensation if they have taught at least 12 hours a week for 14 weeks and earned at least $25 each week in a 52 week period.

The two women realize that districts may try to avoid paying the unemployment compensation by seeing that as many subs as possible don't qualify. Subs may find themselves off the list after they accrue 13 weeks or they may be used only one day a week.

MRS. CASSIDY and Mrs. Courtade won't blame a district for doing this. They are well aware of the financial problems most school districts have to contend with.

But the law hurts. For one thing, these two subs would rather be in the classroom than on the unemployment line.

They like their work, not on a full-time basis, it is several days a week with time to spend at home with their families.

To maintain certification, a teacher with a permanent certificate must teach a minimum of 100 days in a given five-year period. The requirement is higher for those like Mrs. Cassidy who hold a provisional certificate and are trying to convert to permanent.

To be absolutely certain they meet the requirements, these two substitute teachers are calling other districts to get their names on substitute lists. Many lists are already closed for the year.

THERE'S another point. Subbing in one district brings a certain security. The routines, the faces of students, teachers and administrators are familiar as are the books, materials, locations and floor plans of the schools.

It's not so silly to those who have walked into a classroom cold, lost their way, been laughed at, had to hunt for the office and can't find the cupboard.

Substitute teachers have few rights, less fringe benefits and no spokesperson. The most they can expect is an early morning call to a friendly, familiar atmosphere. The continuity which comes from one sub taking over in a classroom for as long as needed seems to mean as much to the substitute as most educators feel it does to the students.

At best the law will give more substitute teachers a chance to get into the classrooms and compare one district to another. At worst, it is one more chalk mark under the heading "gradual depersonalization."

Death takes Rhoda Niss; foundation asks aid

By MARGARET MILLER

A valiant seven-year battle against kidney disease ended Feb. 4 with the death of Rhoda Niss, Livonia wife and mother, who captured the heart of a community.

She and her family had made it through several years of using a kidney dialysis machine, then a kidney transplant and ensuing complications, then two strokes. As her friend and neighbor, Dianaline Brennan, put it, it was "one catastrophe after another."

A liver disorder finally took the life of Mrs. Niss. Funeral services were held Thursday at the Hebrew Memorial Chapel in Oak Park.

THROUGHOUT HER LONG illness Rhoda Niss had inspired, and been inspired by, many in this area determined to help in her fight to live.

A number of these friends, on Brentwood Street, headed by Mrs. Brennan, formed the Home Dialysis Kidney Foundation, a non-profit organization which had as its sole aim financial support for Rhoda and her husband, Sidney, in their medical expense needs.

To finance the needed kidney machine, and then the supplies it required, and later the transplant, many neighborhoods, businesses and clubs in Livonia, Farmington and all through the area have pushed collections and contributions.

AND NOW, with unpaid bills amounting to about $7,500, Mrs. Brennan is asking that friends of the Niss family make a final effort to help.

"It's hard to realize how so many things could go wrong with one person," Mrs. Brennan said. "Or that there could be so many complications in the financing."

"There were problems all along the way—things like if she had been on the machine a little sooner a certain program might have been able to help, or drugs that might have been covered under slightly different circumstances."

Many contributions have come in, of course, Mrs. Brennan said. "But we'd like to close the books and disband the foundation with everything paid."

THROUGH ALL the problems, Mrs. Brennan said the spirit of the Niss family never failed to amaze her. From Rhoda herself, "there was never a complaint," she added.

Sidney Niss, employed by Diamond Automation in Farmington Hills, has managed his work there and long hours beside his ill wife. "The people at the company have been wonderful to the family," Mrs. Brennan said. In recent years, Sidney has been active in Little League and other athletics with his "all sports" junior high son, Michael.

"That's what has kept Sidney going recently," Mrs. Brennan said.

The oldest Niss daughter, Susan, is a January graduate of Clarenceville High School. She's been working three years at Botsford Hospital on a part-time basis and is hoping now to get fulltime work to finance studies at Michigan State University in the fall.

Debbie is busy in the ninth grade at Clarenceville High.

"They are daughters anyone would be proud of," Mrs. Brennan said.

THE CHILDREN all were in elementary school when Rhoda Niss first became ill. One kidney had failed when Susan was born, but that didn't slow her down too much. In 1968 the second failed.

The neighbors pitched in to help with the home duties and the bills, and in the process learned a lot about kidney disease.

One thing that became apparent was that Rhoda could qualify for use of a home dialysis machine, which is attached by tubes to the patient so that it can take over the function of the kidneys, cleansing the blood of impurities.

After a stay in Wayne County General Hospital, Mrs. Niss became the hospital's second patient to get a machine for home use.

The Veterans Trust Fund paid for the machine, and the Pharmaceutical Ladies Auxiliary took over supplying medication. Rhoda and Sidney and the children and the neighbors on Brentwood trained in the use of the machine.

THE HOME DIALYSIS Foundation also redoubled efforts, because it turned out there was a great deal more operating expense.

"We just never realized how much it would cost to keep things going," Mrs. Brennan said.

That went on for four years, with Rhoda spending several hours each day on the machine. Then with kidney transplants being performed successfully more frequently, the decision was made to remove both non-functioning kidneys and await a donor for a transplant.

The operation was performed in 1972 in University Hospital at Ann Arbor, and for a time there was hope for recovery, though progress was slow.

But numerous setbacks, including a slight stroke, got in the way, and in the last few years Mrs. Niss spent a great deal of her time in a hospital bed. There was another stroke about two weeks before her death.

HER BATTLE is over now, but her friends have a final fight ahead.

"We hope people will remember her and help us finish what we started," Mrs. Brennan said. "Contributions to the Home Dialysis Kidney Foundation are tax-exempt, and we have memorial cards if people would like to make them that way."

Contributions should be mailed to Mrs. Frank Brennan, 20215 Brentwood, Livonia, 48152.

RHODA NISS

'Affirmative action' gets a nod from women

By SHERRY KAHAN

If you have been wondering if the affirmative action program is working to improve the employment picture for women, the answer is in the affirmative.

That's the word from the dean of the school of management at the Dearborn campus of the University of Michigan, D. Ross Cowan.

Affirmative action is a federal program which uses civil rights principles to push equal employment opportunities for minorities and women. It's a push that comes first by persuasion and then by threat of government legal action brought against them.

"Employers seem more conscious of the need for better utilizing the abilities of females in their organization," said Cowan. "This has been translated into heightened interest on the part of females for a degree program that would prepare them for opportunities and responsibilities in business."

He added: "We have now a total enrollment of 700 graduate and undergraduate students in our management school. Of this, about 25 per cent are female. Five years ago this would have been five per cent."

THE MANAGEMENT school offers students two ways to go to earn degrees. One is at the undergraduate level, with the junior and senior years the time for special stress on business skills.

The other is the graduate program, which is specifically aimed at those who do not have an undergraduate degree in business administration.

"Our graduate program is for a number of different kinds of students," said Cowan. "Those wishing to change career direction might want to sign up. Or possibly the person, who is soon to be moved into a position of growing managerial responsibilities and finds he needs more business skills."

"It could also be for those who earned a degree at a college which didn't have a business program."

COWAN HAS NOTICED signs of interest on the part of mature women especially, in pursuing management studies at a graduate level.

"They are probably aware of shifting career opportunities for women and they decide to shift with it," said Cowan. "To do this they need a graduate degree."

"Our experience with employers is that they are eager to hire qualified females. It has certainly turned around from some of their past resistance. Management now takes generally a positive position toward affirmative action."

The majority of women management students are interested in accounting, with others heading toward personnel, marketing and finance.

Cowan estimates that with a BA, a management student would earn

He believes women are achieving at least as well as the men in the school and has found a higher representation of females than males at the top of his class of 100 in management science techniques.

"THE RECESSION will not hit women quite as hard as men at the junior level," prophesied Cowan, "because of the affirmative action program."

Richard Czarniecki, chairman of the master's degree management program, has observed that women make up about a third of the class today.

"The opportunities in accounting have opened up considerably for women," he said. "Years ago a CPA firm might not hire women at all. That has all changed in each and every firm."

"A better job is being done today during high school career days toward directing women students toward the opportunities in accounting."

AS COORDINATOR of career planning and placement at U-M Dearborn, Verity Powell knows what is going on in the employment picture as far as women are concerned.

"The affirmative action program has definitely been a factor in moving companies toward hiring more women," she said.

"It helped because once companies had to take women, they found what good employees they were. Now I think that if the program were removed, they would continue to hire women because of this experience."

Mrs. Powell regrets that women with a capability in math are still socialized into believing they can go only into traditional fields like teaching.

Dr. Ross Cowan — 'They are aware of the shifting career opportunities and they decide to shift with them.'

"There are so many other options for them," she said. "They should think of accounting or computer programming and sales. One of our graduates is doing successful work in computer sales for the Burroughs Corp."

"Another was the first woman hired as a loan officer at a big bank a year ago. For a traditional bank to do that, well, that was a feat."

MRS. POWELL SAID she loves to see more women going into the business area because "the more we graduate, the more will get hired and open doors for other women."

She added: "Business is looking for people with specific skills, not necessarily a business major, but a minor. A student should definitely have basic economics, two semesters of accounting and one general business course."

"Businessmen sometimes complain about liberal arts graduates, saying they don't even know basic business terminology. If they bring in someone with at least a few business courses, they find them easier to train."

Mrs. Powell has found one particularly excellent source of employment for women with business training.

"The government is really open to women," she said. "It does a beautiful job of promoting women from within."

"Regardless of what area you are in, once you've qualified for civil service, it is easy to gain upward mobility in government. There are less constraints there than in a firm."

DIANE TWARDUS of Redford Township enrolled at U-M Dearborn last September with her eye on a career in accounting.

"I hope to be a certified public accountant some day," she said. "I knew that until lately accounting was not a popular field for women. But that didn't influence me. I was interested in the field so I'm sticking at it."

Miss Twardus became fascinated with this field after taking a bookkeeping course in Thurston High School. "I like math and I like analyzing financial situations."

She had noticed that most of her classes average about 25 students. "Usually the number of women is about five," she said.

"From talking to girls at school I find that many of them are still going into teaching and nursing, the expected fields for women."

LAVONDY RAMEY, a Bentley High School student, now has proceeded far enough in her management program to be able to become an interne and find out whether all the theories she learned in class really work.

"The school arranges interviews for us with various companies," she explained. "If they accept us, as interns, we earn college credit."

She added: "I feel the program at school is pretty realistic. They have professors who keep in touch with people in business so they know what goes on."

Like Miss Twardus, Miss Ramey came to the management school by way of a high school bookkeeping class. Also intending to enter the accounting field, she said, "I never gave a thought to the idea that it might be a problem for a woman to get a job in this field."

SHE BELIEVES that more women should consider accounting, but they should be cautious.

"Look into it before rushing in, especially before you get into public accounting because of the time involved," she warned. "You can be sent out of town or have to work late at night. If you have a family, this can be hard on the children."

"Industrial accounting is not such a problem because it involves the internal finances of the company."

From her experience working as an intern Miss Ramey finds that "it is pretty much accepted for a woman to be in accounting."

Mental patients' group will form for action

A former social worker put out a call this week for formation of a new group to be called "Mental Patients' Action Group."

Steve Rice will hold his first meeting Tuesday, Feb. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in Farmington's Universalist-Unitarian Church, 25301 Halstead, just north of Grand River.

In the organization, he is asking participation by mental patients and their families and friends on a five-part series of actions to be centered around a law that went into effect last November. It concerns admission and discharge procedures for those with mental illnesses.

Dr. Richard Budd, assistant superintendent at Northville State Hospital, will be guest speaker for the first meeting.

Rice said he hopes the first business at hand will be testing the new law by getting testimonials from those involved in special problems during the last three months.

The testimonials, he said, will be turned over to State Rep. Robert Geake (R-Northville).

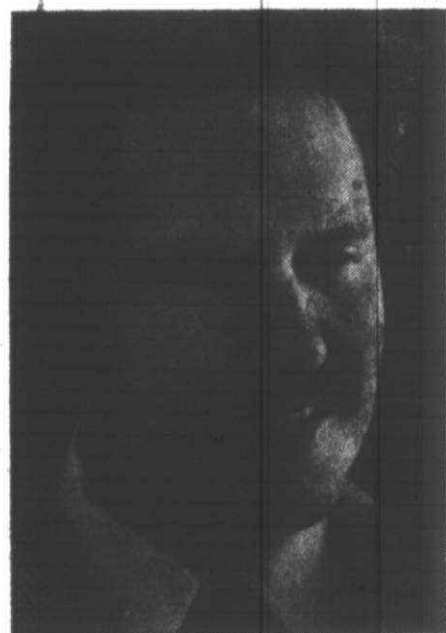

Other aims of the group will be investigating facilities for mental patients in the Detroit area, learning more about the quality of care patients receive and the rights of the patients, and forming a team of volunteers to work as patient advocates.

Fingers fly to raise funds

BUSY WITH PREPARATIONS for a dessert luncheon, card party and craft sale Tuesday, Feb. 18 are members of the Livonia Woman's National Farm & Garden Association. They're making note pads to give as favors to those who attend the event at noon in St. Andrew Episcopal Church, 16360 Hubbard. Tickets at $1.75 cover lunch and prizes, and the money is used to finance such projects as planting flower beds for the Livonia Senior Citizens' building, sending a student to Higgins Lake conservation camp and offering horticulture therapy at Northville State Hospital. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Canton nips Harrison, 61-59

With no time remaining on the clock Plymouth Canton forward Brian Stemberger walked calmly to the foul line and sank two free throws to ice a thrilling 61-59 victory for the Chiefs over Farmington Harrison Friday night.

The game was marked by two technical fouls charged to the Canton Five, but at the end the Plymouth team managed to overcome an 11 point deficit and win the Western Six league game.

Stemberger led the Chief scoring with 15 points, the final two coming after he stole the ball with four seconds left in the game and the score tied 59-59. Joe Wald and Ron Lack scored 12 points each for the winners.

The Harrison Hawks were led in the scoring column by six-foot-four junior Mark Brozek with 21 points. Center Bob Mason added 19 and Mike Styles 11.

The Hawks nearly blew the Chiefs off the floor in the first quarter coming out in a full court press that caused the Plymouth team to make a half-dozen turnover. With Mason and Brozek hitting the nets for 21 points, the Harrison quintet pulled away to a 23-12 first quarter lead.

Plymouth coach E. Cavell made some lineup changes and his team settled down and trailed by just four points, 35-31, at the half.

In the third quarter Stemberger, and then coach Cavell drew technical fouls for disputing the referees calls, but Plymouth's tough 2-1-2 defense held Farmington to just 10 points and the quarter ended with the score deadlocked 45-45.

In the final quarter the lead changed hands several times before the Hawks pulled ahead 59-55 with less than two minutes remaining to be played. Chief forward Tom Close narrowed the margin 59-57 converting a free throw and Ron Lack followed up his own rebound to tie the count 59-all with 24 seconds left in regulation time. That set the stage for the steal by Stemberger and the game winning free throws.

Farmington outshot the Chiefs from the floor, hitting on 59 percent of their attempts to Canton's 50 percent. Plymouth outbounded the Hawks 24 to 20.

Winning coach "Casey" Cavell credits his squad with sticking in the game after a disastrous first quarter of play. Plymouth switched from a zone to a tough man-to-man defense and successfully kept the Hawks bigger men from penetrating the key. Offensively Canton then got rolling and began cutting away at Harrison's lead.

Plymouth got good all around scoring with eight players breaking into the scoring column. At the foul line the shooting left much to be desired as Canton was able to convert on only 11 of 22 charity tosses and Farmington hitting on 15 of 28. Farmington Harrison is now 7-8 for the season.

Plymouth with nine juniors dominating the team and with ten players standing at six-feet-two or taller should be a definite threat in future league action.

Trojans bump Clarkston

The second time around proved sweeter than the first for Bob Wolf's Clarenceville Trojans.

In round one of the Wayne-Oakland cage loop, Clarenceville was nipped at the wire by Clarkston, 58-56. This time it was Clarenceville that did the nipping, 54-52.

It was the fourth win for the Trojans against 12 losses and snapped a four game losing streak.

Clarenceville led the entire 32 minutes and with 30 seconds remaining, a breakaway bucket by Brad Rowens gave the Trojans a four point margin and the contest.

George Scholes sparked the Clarenceville attack with 19 points and 18 rebounds. The Trojans wound up 19 of 38 from the floor for 32 per cent and Clarkston hit on 17 of 51 for 33 per cent.

The Trojans travel to St. Agatha tomorrow (Tuesday) for a non-league game. Box score:

(Part II)

Among the exhibits at the Plymouth Fair was a collection of prize chickens. Clara Patterson Todd, who lived adjacent to the Fairgrounds, and who watched from her bedroom window as the fair came to life each day, remembered that the chickens were housed in coops built in double tiers along the board fence which separated the grounds from the Patterson property.

"You can imagine what it was like when every rooster crowed from the first peep of dawn," wrote Mrs. Todd. "When the hens joined the serenade there was no sleep for anyone in the neighborhood. That was really when the fun began because, as children, we just could not sleep. We would lie on the floor in front of the window and from that vantage point had a ringside seat for all the early morning activities."

"As soon as we could see the side curtains taken off the merry-go-round or the ferris wheel, or any of the other concessions, we knew it was time to go to the fair. And yet we were told, 'Go back to bed and be quiet.'"

PLYMOUTH-FAIR AND PRESENT by Clara Todd

In addition to chickens, the fair usually showed rabbits and white mice, which always fascinated the children. A building east of Floral Hall housed a display of buggies, surreys, farm machinery and equipment.

Horses on display in 1899 included Cleveland Bays, French coach horses, Shires, Clydesdales and Percherons, the most famous of all modern draught horses.

For some adults, the high point of a day at the Plymouth Fair was the horse races seen from the grandstand, the second most imposing structure at the grounds. The stand was located on the east side of the track, about where Joy and Fairground streets now meet.

It accommodated about 500 spectators. Those who could afford to paid extra for "box seats"—a row of chairs placed in front of the grandstands. Some watched the races from their buggies in the hitching area within the race track oval.

The race track was considered one of the best in this part of the state. Races included trotting, pacing, and, on the last two days of the fair, the half-mile running race. Purses ranged from $50 to $200.

Local businessmen owned and entered their own horses. On Aug. 22, 1891, entries in the first race included Hiram Cady's "Beecher," Ole Bornhart's "Charlie Casey," and Frank Bennett's "Membrino Frank." In the second race were Marvin Berdan's "Thunderstorm," H. William's "Cyclone," Ed Cook's "Breeze," John McLaren's "Blizzard," E.P. Coles' "Hailstone," Harry Robinson's "Tornado," H. Whipple's "Whirlwind," Roswell C. Root's "Sunshine," and P.R. Wilson's "Moonshine." (The horse set was apparently fond of meteorological terms).

The third race that day was a farmer's event. It was open only to horses that worked on a farm.

Behind the race track grandstand were box stalls for the race horses, barns to hold the cows, and enclosures to contain the pigs waiting their turn to be judged.

During the last two days of the fair, bicycle races were held on the race track. Anyone could enter without paying an entry fee. Prizes were awarded for those placing first and second.

One of the most exciting events at the fair was the balloon ascension. A huge bag was inflated, following the technique developed by the Montgolfier brothers in France in 1783. In that year, the Montgolfiers gave a sheep, a rooster and a duck the honor of being the first airborne passengers in history. All returned safely, but the rooster sustained a broken wing caused by a kick from the sheep.

A fire was built underneath the bag and the smoke and hot air were trapped inside the cloth sphere. The balloon rose due to the lightness of the heated air. Clara Todd remembered one balloon ascension at the fair in which men labored three days trying to inflate the bag. When the balloon finally went up it barely cleared the Fairgrounds fence. It toppled over in a field on an adjoining farm.

Most of the balloon ascensions went off on schedule, however, and the spectators were thrilled by the acrobatic antics of the daring balloonist.

On the Fourth of July, and on other special occasions, balloons were also sent up from Kellogg Park and from the central parking lot behind the Main Street business block. Ezra Rotnour recalls seeing a balloon go up from the parking lot. The fire was built in a long trench and was fueled with boxes. About 25 men held the sphere down until the performer was ready to mount his trapeze and take off. He did stunts in the air as the balloon sailed away.

One day was set aside as Children's Day at the fair. On that day all children under 15 were admitted free. Youngsters from one-room schoolhouses in Northville, Novi, Canton, Livonia, Wayne, Salem, Superior, Farmington, Dearborn and other nearby townships came to Plymouth by the wagonload.

"They all met at 10 a.m., in the park at Plymouth Union School, together with the children from the local school," recalled Karl Starkweather. "Led by a band we all marched in a body down the board sidewalk to the main gate on Ann Arbor Trail."

(Part III will discuss ball games, the midway, shell games, and attempts to sell liquor at the Fair).

LWV offers handbooks to local government

Plymouth-Canton residents may obtain guides to local government and other publications concerning political and governmental issues through the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters.

The newest publication, "Supercity • Hometown, U.S.A.," is an informative guide to metropolitan government and an action-oriented handbook with a message for anyone concerned about the quality of local government.

The book is the culmination of survey work, performed by more than 200 league members in 27 urban areas as part of the Metropolitan Government Project, funded by the Carnegie Corp.

The book sells for $1.95 and may be ordered from the publications chairman of the Northville-Plymouth League, Johanne Fechter, 397 N. Evergreen, Plymouth.

Other league publications include "Green Grass Roots," $1, a guide to involvement in the political process; "When You Write to Washington," 35 cents, a guide to citizen action; and "The Right to Privacy," 35 cents, which deals with the problems of surveillance and Constitutional rights. A free catalogue of league publications is also available.

The league will conduct a fund raising drive in the Plymouth-Northville area in March, under the direction of local finance chairman Anna Lee Mathes, to collect funds for publications about Plymouth and Novi.

Donations were recently used to publish "Northville," a fact-filled book about that community. The league hopes to publish a book about Plymouth and Novi next year.

Debaters score successful season

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Salem High School debate team has scored its most successful season in four years, reaping the Free Press Award for Debate Excellence.

Debating the topic "resolved—that the United States should significantly change the method of selecting presidential and vice-presidential candidates—" were Steve Cabadas, Sandy Lowe, John Moote and Rich Mosteller for the affirmative side and Chuck Lowe, Steve Thoburn, Brad Moore and Kurt Olson for the negative.

All but Olson were first-year debaters this year.

The team finished seventh of 45 schools in the Ypsilanti tournament and placed in the top third of every tournament it attended. In the junior varsity division, the team finished third in its state debate league.

Individual team members also won recognition this season. Thoburn, Chuck Lowe and Moote each won two awards for outstanding debating.

The team competed in three different leagues, which included schools from neighboring Westland, Livonia, Taylor, Farmington, Dearborn and Ann Arbor, and co-hosted its first invitational tournament at the Centennial Education Park at which 25 schools attended.

In addition, the team competed in six Saturday tournaments, held at various locations throughout the state.

The team will begin preparing for next year's topic in April.

Because of the nature of the presentation, interested visitors are invited to attend. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Dunning Memorial Building, at Main and Church.

Pioneer hosts Middle School conference

PLYMOUTH—Because of its educational process and procedures, Pioneer Middle School has been selected as the site for this year's annual Middle School Conference for the Michigan Association of Middle School Educators, Feb. 27-28.

Pioneer Principal Gerald Elston said that this fifth annual conference will include speakers Nicholas P. The conference will include middle school teachers and administrators from throughout the state.

Long time symphony member dies

Funeral services were conducted in Ann Arbor Thursday (Feb. 6) for Nelson M. Hauenstein, 54, an associate dean of music at the University of Michigan School of Music and one of the country's leading experts on the flute. He died of cancer Feb. 3 after a long illness.

A native of Bufton, Ohio, Hauenstein was a longtime member of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. He joined the orchestra in 1949 when Wayne Dunlap became conductor.

"He and Wayne were a team," said Fred Beitner, a charter member of the symphony.

"Nelson was one of the few 'colors' in the orchestra," Beitner continued. "Many musicians of his caliber would not have performed with amateurs. But he was faithful, congenial and most understanding, and he accepted their musical abilities."

"He was a talented, disciplined professional. The whole woodwind section revolved around his performance."

"THE FIRST rehearsal for a concert is when all the mistakes are made, especially by the amateurs," said Beitner. "The mistakes didn't faze Nelson. He put forth his best effort as usual."

Because his performance always was flawless, one occasion became memorable to orchestra members. "The only time he ever flubbed, the rest of the musicians laid aside their instruments and applauded."

Dean Allen P. Britton of the U-M School of Music said, "Nelson Hauenstein was one of the finest flutists in the world, one of the finest teachers, a very distinguished performer and one of the best loved members of the faculty. He was an administrator of great humanity whose main concern was always how to help students."

Hauenstein received a bachelor of music degree from the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N.Y. He studied with William Kincaid, eminent teacher of flute, and received a master of music degree from the U-M in 1947.

He was a technical sergeant in the U.S. Army from 1942 to 1945, serving in North Africa.

ONE OF THE organizers of the U-M Woodwind Quintet and Baroque Trio, he performed with these groups for many years, on radio and television as well as on the concert stage. He also made solo appearances with Michigan orchestras and bands.

Salem nips Edsel Ford

Bentley cagers stun Belleville, 64-59

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Don't even think of settling back in your easy chair in an attempt to figure out the Suburban Eight basketball race.

With each club having three loop clashes left on the 1974-75 card, the title chase shows every sign of a jigsaw puzzle with a Bulldog standing on the sidelines taking a nip here and a bite there.

If any team has an edge it has to be Fred Thomann's Plymouth Salem Rocks who regained sole possession of first when they just did get by Edsel Ford, 50-47, while the Bentley Bulldogs stunned Belleville, 64-59.

At the same time, Dearborn nipped Allen Park, 53-51, and Redford Union dumped Trenton, 59-53.

The Sub Eight race now looks like this: Salem is on top at 9-2 with Belleville and Dearborn next in line with 8-3 records and Bentley two steps behind at 6-5.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) is non-league night for Suburban Eight clubs and Salem has anything but a "night off" as Thomann's crew will be going up against the No. 1 area squad in Westland John Glenn.

IT WILL BE a 15-1 Glenn team invading 13-2 Salem. And for the Salem Rocks this is the one they must win to prove to area followers that they really are what they say they are: No. 1 in the area and a definite state contender.

Following the non-leaguer, the next three basketball nights, Feb. 14-18, 21, will feature it all in the Sub Eight. And don't even blink for fear of missing out on the scramble to the finish.

Plymouth Salem has Allen Park at home this Friday, travels to Dearborn on Tuesday (Feb. 18) and winds up with Redford Union at home on the 21st.

Meanwhile, Dearborn is at Belleville this Friday in a crucial contest for each. On Tuesday, Feb. 18, Belleville is at Allen Park and on the 21st it will be Trenton at Belleville and Dearborn at Bentley.

Bentley's dumping of the Tigers at Belleville quickly turned a loud roar to a meow after Belleville had upset Salem just three nights prior, 66-59.

Tom Niemi's cry of taking it all in the Sub Eight has now taken a back seat to the cries of the Bentley gym.

BENTLEY REMAINED unbeaten at home in seven appearances this season and this, coupled with a 2-8 mark on the road, gives the Bulldogs an overall 9-8 showing.

"Belleville just couldn't pull away from us and our kids wouldn't quit," commented first year Bentley coach Larry Jackson.

"I know one thing, though. We would like to get a good draw in the districts and get another shot at Plymouth Salem in the state tourney."

Bentley bounced the Salem Rocks in the Bulldog gym in game No. 3 of the season, 79-78, but was destroyed in round two, 77-49.

The Bulldogs jumped off to a 20-12 first quarter lead over Belleville, upped it to 38-27 at the half but fell behind after three quarters, 49-46.

A four for 16 quarter from the floor saw Belleville take the lead with a 22-8 eighth minute margin as Bentley failed to score in the first six minutes of the third.

But the tide turned Bentley's way in the fourth. The Bulldogs hit eight of 12 from the floor and Don Kegley pumped in eight of his 18 while Belleville was held to just three field goals and two free throws.

PLYMOUTH SALEM, which had earlier trampled Edsel Ford by 14 points at home, had a rougher go of it down in Dearborn country this time.

In fact, Edsel Ford hit 10 of 14 from the floor the first quarter to take a 22-14 lead. But that finesse in the shooting game ticked away with the minutes. The remaining three quarters saw Ford connect on only eight of 18.

Salem closed it to 31-25 at the half and took command in the third with a 15-5 surge pushing them in front to stay at 40-36.

Redford Union lost the first half against Trenton, 33-30, but took it all in the second, 29-20, to win its seventh against nine losses overall.

Ted Ackerman's eight points and Steve Schultz's six points sparked the RU fourth period assault.

Tomorrow night shows RU hosting rival Thurston in a non-league bout and the Salem Rocks putting a 15-game home court winning streak on the line against the Rockets of John Glenn.

Then comes the Sub Eight home stretch drive...just try and put that puzzle together. Box scores:

"Although we led by 10 points most of the game, we couldn't relax until the score reached 66-44 with about four minutes left in the game," Davis said.

Rocket center Terry Johnson got 14 of his 22 points in the first quarter and pulled down a game-high 10 rebounds. Guard Harry Polovino, whom Davis calls "another coach out on the floor," had eight assists and sank 10 of 14 field goal attempts in canning 23 points while John Jesson added 12 points and grabbed nine rebounds.

Johnson also was torrid from the field in sinking 11 shots in 15 tries.

John Glenn added to its growing list of records in running its Northwest Suburban League mark to 9-0.

Larry Galloway was the only visitor in double figures with 13 points.

Meanwhile, at Franklin, Billy Joe

Young's Garden City East team played what he called its finest offensive game of the year in walloping Livonia Franklin, 79-55.

Actually, the Patriots of Bob Visser never were in the ball game as the Panthers destroyed them early with quarter leads of 23-13, 48-24 and 64-32 before letting the second unit play most of the final stanza.

The Panther victory, which ran their Northwest Suburban League record to 7-1, sets up this Friday's dramatic clash with John Glenn (8-0) at East which gives the scrappy Garden City quintet a chance to tie the Rockets for the NSL title.

East out-rebounded Franklin, 40-24, and shot 46 per cent (29 of 63) to Franklin's 36 per cent (21 of 59).

Lefty Greg Emery grabbed 12 rebounds and fired in 22 points to lead

East. Jim Peter hit a season high 16 while forward Jim Riley canned 18 and forward Ken Tomaszewski scored 10 and pulled down 12 caroms.

For Franklin, Sam Williams came off the bench and ripped the cords with 22 points, all in the last three quarters. Williams scored 10 of the Patriots' 11 second quarter points and six of their eighth third period markers. Dan Pederson added 11 as Franklin dropped its sixth league game in eight starts.

"It was by far our best offensive performance of the year," a happy coach Young said after the game. It was a good team effort with several players having outstanding games and handing off some beautiful passes."

Westland John Glenn invades Plymouth Salem tomorrow night in a classic battle between the area's two outstanding basketball powers.

It should be standing room only for the Rocks, who have a 13-2 record, and the Rockets of Gordie Davis, who crushed Oak Park Friday, 74-49, to run their season record to a scintillating 15-1, and the last 14 in a row.

Plymouth Salem's Fred Thomann vows to have his club ready for the clash which will command interest all over the suburban area.

But Davis thinks his boys are ready. "I feel our kids will meet the challenge. Salem will have the advantage of the home court and height. We'll have to shoot well and be at the top of our game to win. It should be an exciting game!"

The powerful Rockets, who had to go into overtime to beat the Redskins, 55-46, in their first meeting, jumped to a 21-14 first quarter lead, increased it to 35-25 at halftime and 51-39 after three quarters.

But the pesky Oak Park quintet never gave up and it took all of Glenn's 62 per cent shooting from the floor (34 of 55) to crush the Redskins with a 23-10 margin in the last quarter.

Friday night capped "Cinder-fella Week" at Garden City West and nine seniors were nominated for the title of "King of School Spirit."

One of the nominees, Gary Hutnik, didn't win that title but the hustling 6-2 forward was "Cinder-fella" during the game as West dumped Crestwood, 61-47, in a sluggish Tri-River basketball contest.

Hutnik, who looked like the "King of Hustle" during the game, pumped in a career high 18 points in leading the Tigers over the Chargers. Center Mike Susko was the only other West player in double figures as he tallied 14 points.

What made Hutnik's performance all the more remarkable was the fact he guarded Crestwood's high-scoring Jim Novicka and held him to only four baskets and 10 points. In their first meeting, Novicka rattled the nets for 23 points against West. Jim Lewis, Crestwood's other guard, led his team with 11 markers while Dale Kasza chipped in nine and Derek Doherty and Mike Targac each added eight.

Jay Gooch and David Niles, who is averaging 17 points a game, each had nine for West.

Chris Babler, whose Tigers won their 13th game in 16 starts, is still looking for a cohesive unit even though West ran its Tri-River record to 9-2.

Crestwood has lost eight of its eleven league games but the Chargers gave the Tigers all they could handle for three quarters before the host squad sewed up the win.

West needed baskets by Hutnik and Susko in the last 33 seconds of the first period to tie Crestwood, 14-all, at the buzzer. Hutnik's eight points and six by Susko helped the Tigers assume a 36-31 halftime edge and Hutnik continued his consistency by ramming home six more in the third period as West led 51-41 going into the homestretch.

West's victory sets up tomorrow's crucial battle with first-place Melvin-dale, a game ahead of West in the standings, to see who will share the Tri-River League crown.

If the Tigers get by Melvindale, they only have to beat weak Schafer and Southgate to insure a first place tie with the winner of the upcoming Cherry Hill-Melvindale showdown.

G.C. West - (61) - Gooch, 4, 1-2, 9; Hutnik, 9, 0-1, 18; Susko, 7, 0-1, 14; Niles, 4, 1-1, 9; Chavis, 1, 1-2, 3; Shelley, 1, 2-2, 4; Carr, 1, 2-4, 2. TOTALS: 27, 7-13, 61.

CRESTWOOD - (47) - Lewis, 5, 1-2, 11; Novicka, 4, 2-2, 10; Kasza, 2, 5-8, 9; Targac, 3, 2-2, 8; Doherty, 2, 4-7, 8; Philpot, 0, 1-3, 1. TOTALS: 16, 15-24, 47.

Stevenson jumps into loop lead

The Spartans of Livonia Stevenson found out all you need is a little help from your friends.

The Inter-Lakes basketball race showed every sign of Pontiac Northern and Stevenson winding up in a title deadlock. The sign is there for George VanWagoner's Spartans but it was stolen from Pontiac.

The Falcons of Farmington upset Northern, 61-60, while Stevenson got by Walled Lake Central, 50-46. Now with two loop matches remaining, Stevenson is 7-1 in the league and Northern, 6-2.

However, Stevenson's friend "now" in Farmington could turn just the opposite on the final day of the regular season.

Stevenson, after hosting Edsel Ford tomorrow (Tuesday) in a non-leaguer, travels to Milford on Friday, Feb. 14, and to Farmington on Feb. 21 in the finale.

The Central conquest had to be all sorts of points closer than VanWagoner had anticipated. His Spartans danced by the same team earlier in the year, 67-54.

This time around it was Stevenson, 7-6, after one quarter, and 19-18 at the half. The margin was two at the end of three, 34-32, and just four at the buzzer.

Overall, Stevenson stands 12-5. Box score:

STEVENSON (50): Galindo, 4, 2-3, 10; Bowby, 5, 4-10, 14; Herman, 2, 0-0, 4; Rose, 1, 5-6, 7; Gilland, 1, 3-4, 5; Colone, 4, 2-4, 10. TOTALS, 17-16-29, 50.

Thurston wins 3rd straight; bounces North Raiders, 63-52

The ball-hawking Thurston Eagles parlayed 18 steals and 27 North Farmington turnovers into an easy 63-52 win, last Friday night.

Relying on a full court press that never eased up, the Eagles raced to an early 17-7 first quarter lead and were never headed thereafter. By half-time Thurston held a 41-24 margin and breezed through the second-half.

Seniors Dave Polideri and Gary Bireta lead the Eagle attack with 19 points apiece. Polideri and Bireta also hauled in 23 rebounds between them as Thurston controlled the boards, both on offense and defense.

North Farmington got ten players in the scoring stats but as a team shot a cold-handed 30 percent from the floor while Thurston was hitting 43 percent of the time. Kevin Gaisor, Joe Antonico and Tom Moore led the Raiders cagers with 10 points each.

THURSTON COACH Bill Croteau

was pleased with his team's performance.

"That's three in a row for us, now," said Croteau. "Our defense was excellent. And our kids are really starting to believe in themselves as a winning team."

Losing coach Ken Dean commented that his team had practiced against Thurston's expected full court zone press all week.

"We knew it was coming," said Dean. "But we still couldn't cope with it. It was pretty frustrating-what with all the easy layups Thurston got and the number of turnovers committed."

NORTH FARMINGTON had 16 turnovers in the first half alone. The Raiders' usual high-scorer, Bob Patek, had his first shot blocked by Polideri and Patek made only one bucket thereafter.

One bright spot for North Farmington was the play of junior guard Kevin McCrum who entered the game in the fourth quarter and scored nine points in a losing cause. McCrum was the smallest player on the court, standing five-feet-seven, but led the Raiders in rebounds and may have earned himself a starting job.

North Farmington's next game is with Berkley. Berkley is 15-0 on the season and the Raiders' chances of improving their 4-13 record look pretty dim. Thurston is currently 7-9 and is riding a three game win streak.

THURSTON (63): Polideri 8, 3-4, 19; Bireta 8, 7-11, 19; Fazzini 1, 0-0, 8; Rodriguez 4, 0-0, 8; Crzywada 1, 0-1, 2; Pildigan 0, 1-1, 1; Abondis 1, 0-0, 2; Beebe 2, 0-0, 4. TOTALS: 23, 17-26, 63.

Stevenson matmen win city crown

Seven champions strong, Jeff Sadowsky's Stevenson Spartans topped top honors in the Livonia Quad Wrestling Tourney.

Stevenson finished with 50 points, Franklin was next best with 42, Churchill third with 33 and Bentley fourth with 16.

The championship was clinched for Stevenson when Spartan Larry Winey pinned his Franklin opponent, Dave Petrosky, in the finals in 3:12.

The only defending champion to repeat was Stevenson's Doug Stein who won his final match, 5-1, over Franklin's Mike Ancona. Results:

A 'real' letter answers hockey parent pressure

It has been some time since I have lampooned the world of 'hockey parents'.

Things have been quiet too long, and after coming across a letter from a young hockey player to his parents that appeared in Ed Senyczko's column in the Lansing State Journal, I thought of relaying the parent pressure message along.

"Dear Mom and Dad,
"I hope you won't get mad at me for writing this letter, but you always tell me never to hold anything back, and bring it out in the open. So here goes.

"Yesterday when I went after the puck in front of the goal, trying to score and I fell, well, Mom, I could hear you yelling at the goalie for tripping me. Gosh, Mom, it wasn't his fault. He's suppose to keep me from scoring.

"Then do you remember yelling at me to get on the blue line? Well, gee, I didn't know where to go then; 'cause the coach had told me to cover my man, and I couldn't if I listened to you, so while I tried to decide what to do, the other team scored against us, then you yelled at me for being in the wrong place. I wish you'd yell some good things at all of us sometimes.

"Dad, you're always yelling 'hit him' or 'get him' and gosh I'd rather play hockey than sit in the penalty box. Besides my coach tells me to 'lean' on my man and steer him away from the goalmouth and into the boards. That way it's a clean check and I get to stay on the ice and to play some more.

"Dad, I'm not saying that all coaches teach that way, but our coach tells us we've got lots of time to learn how to hit harder and how to do it right.

"But what got me really mad, Mom and Dad, was what happened after the game. You shouldn't have jumped on the coach for pulling me off the ice. He's a pretty swell guy and he's a pretty good coach and he knows when he needs a power line on the ice. Besides, he's just a volunteer coming to the rink at all hours to help us kids, just 'cause he likes the sport and he likes kids.

"And then neither of you spoke to me the whole way home. I guess you were pretty sore at me for not getting a goal. I tried awfully hard, but I guess you think I'm just a lousy hockey player. And I guess I am.

"But I love hockey. I like being with the other kids and learning how to compete as a good sport in a really great sport.

"And another thing. Last week when we played in Center City, the parents there actually gave one of our players a standing ovation...boy, did that make us feel great. Anyway, I wish our parents could see how great it felt.

"I guess what I'm trying to say, Mom and Dad, is I wish you were good sports, 'cause I thought I was playing hockey for fun, to have a good time, to learn how to play a sport as a team member and learn sportsmanship. I didn't know you were going to be so upset because I couldn't become a star."

Parent pressure in sports today...this is one of the answers.

I just wonder how many of you parents think this letter is addressed to you.

Turf Tips, Quips

By DOC MINARD

There may be a lot of unemployed in Michigan and thousands in the Detroit area but one won't know it from the way folks have been pouring into Northville Downs and Windsor Raceway thus far this year.

Both tracks had record Saturdays a week ago with the wagering at the Downs hitting $527,000, most ever for a winter meeting, while Windsor went over $700,000.

Add the two figures and you have an astronomical figure of $1.2 million. Just think how that would look in the records of either Hazel Park or Wolverine Raceway if they decided to bid for the winter dates and raced without competition.

It could happen. There isn't any question that Windsor would not accept the challenge of either of the big tracks at any time. The Canadian management feels it can go against Northville Downs or the Jackson-at-Northville meetings and come out on top with a comfortable edge.

By the same token that same management also knows from sad experience that it can't cope with either Hazel Park or Wolverine.

We aren't suggesting that such a thing should happen but the time may come in the not too distant future when track managements may feel it is better to average around $900,000 during the winter without competition than to go against the runners in the summer and barely hit $800,000. It's just a thought.

FROM TORONTO comes word that Greenwood Raceway, the downtown harness racing track that operates at night during the winter, is having the most fantastic season in history.

The plant has had more million dollar nights than one ever thought possible and has been averaging well over $900,000. The reason...night racing and no competition of any kind closer than Buffalo.

The Canadian tracks have one big thing working for them. When a bettor hits one of the gimmicks for a big payoff, he doesn't have to report it to the income tax service when he collects. That could be one of the reasons for the better play at Windsor over Northville...if a bettor in the United States hits for more than $602, he or she must sign a statement to that effect for the Internal Revenue Service before leaving the payoff window. That is a person betting $2 has a maximum of $602...in Canada just load your pockets and walk away.

Plymouth, moved his fast-stepping trotter Kool King after a long rest and now finds he can't get any races for him.

Seems that Stu has entered Kool King several times but the word spreads quickly around the barn area and when the entry box is opened there aren't enough for a race. It may be Stu will either have to rest him until Hazel Park opens or ship him to Chicago for some of the rich events there against trotters that can really go.

ARE YOU ONE of those harness racing fans that watch the standings of the drivers? Then you probably have noted that Jayne Weller ranks fourth among the drivers at Northville Downs with six wins in her 33 starts.

We can still remember the nights not so many years back when June Dillman, the mother of Jayne, was just about the best feminine pilot in the land. June didn't take a backseat for any male reinsmen and she had some of the fastest horses of that time to prove her points.

Jayne is a real chip off the block. She doesn't ask for any favors because of her sex and the driver who tries to play tricks with her during a race generally finds he picked on the wrong person.

We don't have the record books to prove it but we'd say the careers of June and Jayne cover the better part of a quarter century of harness racing in Michigan.

ALTHOUGH HE HAS NEVER said anything else but that he paid $10,000 in a private sale for his brilliant Spanish Mac, Bob Kalish, of Southfield, finds himself perturbed by references in many news stories to his $10,000 claim.

Kalish is telling friends about his most recent purchase. He bought Patch Pride from Leon Boring but had to go to Florida to complete the deal.

Stevenson splashes Bentley, 97-75

Stevenson's depth proved too much for the Bulldogs of Bentley High to handle.

The two Livonia crews split in the relays but Stevenson copped seven of the nine first places. Bentley swept the 100 butterfly and Stevenson bounced back with a sweep of the 100 freestyle.

Stevenson's Gary Sieh was the meet's solo double victor with a 1:58.7 first in the 200 freestyle and a 5:20 first in the 500 freestyle. Results:

200 MEDLEY RELAY: 1-Bentley (Mayes, Mushoff, McBee, Montes), 1:51.1; 2-Stevenson (Santo, Albme, Hickman, Mueller).
200 FREESTYLE: 1-Sieh (S), 1:58.7; 2-Buckler (S); 3-Lamarone (B).
200 INDIVIDUAL MEDLEY: 1-Santo (S), 2:17.4; 2-Walkowen (B); 3-Waltus (S).

America's Number 1 Lottery Game is now two ways better:

1. New instant payoff for $25 winners.
2. You know instantly if you're in the Million Dollar Drawing.

Match this number exactly and you are in the Million Dollar Drawing.

MILLION DOLLAR NO.
000000
THE STATE OF MICHIGAN LOTTERY
M$1
SERIES	LOT	SEQUENCE	DRAWING DATE	LOTTERY NOS.
0-0000-000	00/00/00	000	000	000

Match one of these numbers and you win $25. Match both of these numbers and you win up to $200,000.

Starting with the February 27 weekly drawing, every ticket holder has a chance to advance automatically to a Million Dollar Drawing. Weekly $25 winners can collect their prize, in cash, the same day.

Here's how it works:

$25 Winners

Two 3-digit Regular Numbers are drawn each week. If you match one of the Regular Numbers in either box in the lower right-hand corner of your ticket, you win $25. Turn in your winning ticket at a participating Lottery Sales Agent within 30 days from date on ticket. The agent will pay you $25 immediately. (If you do not claim within 30 days, you must take the ticket to a Lottery Claim Center and payment will be mailed.) Please note that starting with tickets dated Feb. 27, matching one 3-digit number and winning $25 does not get you into the Million Dollar Drawing. You must match exactly the Million Dollar Number at the top of the ticket.

Super Winners

If you match both of the 3-digit Regular numbers in the boxes in the lower right-hand corner, you are in a Super Drawing! Take your ticket to a Lottery Claim Center. You will compete for prizes ranging from $10,000 to $200,000!

Million Dollar Drawing

Starting February 27, 1975, every 50¢ "Green" Game ticket has a chance to advance to the Million Dollar Drawing. You don't have to win $25 first. Look for the 6-digit "Million Dollar" number at the top of the ticket. If your ticket for that drawing matches the 6-digit Million Dollar Number exactly as announced, you are in the Million Dollar Drawing with a chance to win prizes up to $1,000,000! Take your ticket to a Lottery Claim Center for instructions.

Bonuses

Frequently, extra numbers will be drawn for many additional Bonus prizes—cash, cars, merchandise, etc.

The chance of a lifetime.

EGGS - LOW COST PROTEIN

SCRAMBLED EGGS, fried eggs, souffles, omelets, hard or soft boiled, anyway at all, eggs make a quick, easy, and nutritious meal. Here's a list of suggestions and facts about eggs — everything you always wanted to know about eggs, but were afraid to ask.

STORE EGGS covered or in their carton in your refrigerator. Keep the large end up to keep the air cell in the end and the yolk centered. Avoid storing eggs in the refrigerator door. Constant opening and closing of the door can cause shaking and a breakdown in the quality of the eggs.

GOOD QUALITY FRESH EGGS stand up. That is, when broken into a dish, the high quality fresh egg has more thick white and doesn't flatten out. The amount of thick white decreases as the egg ages and the egg spreads out more.

HARD-COOKED fresh eggs are difficult to peel. To make eggs easier to peel, let the eggs sit at room temperature overnight before cooking them. Eggs also beat up faster and to a larger volume if brought to room temperature first. But — only remove the amount you need from the refrigerator.

EGGS are commonly sized extra large (27 ounces), large (24 ounces), and medium (21 ounces) per dozen. A dozen eggs weighs about 1 1/2 pounds in the shell. If a dozen large eggs sell at 75 cents, that would be only 50 cents per pound for this protein rich food.

IF THERE'S LESS than an 8 cent price spread per dozen between sizes, you'll get more for your money by buying the larger size.

EGGS, low cost protein, are delicious and nutritious at any meal. At Meijer, we want you to know.

WILL THE REAL 100% NATURAL VITAMIN E CAPSULE PLEASE STAND UP!

They look exactly alike BUT .....one of these Vitamin E capsules is many times more effective than the other two. Which one? The 100% all natural, non-synthetic capsule, of course. How can you tell the difference? Read the label. If it says "succinate," "acetate," or "derived from natural sources"—it is not natural! Only Vitamin E that's labeled "d-alpha-tocopherol with natural mixed tocopherols" is pure, natural, high-potency Vitamin E. Truly natural Vitamin E costs more at the store. BUT IT COSTS LESS WHEN YOU USE IT! Because one International Unit of natural Vitamin E gives you more effectiveness than two, three, even four synthetic International Units. 100% natural Vitamin E is your best and most economical buy!
